Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The first session of the Forty-second Congress expired to-day in a scene of confusion, excitement, and considerable counter-charges of invective. Of course the original fire was kept up by the notorious fire-bug, Butler, who is indefatigable himself, but the cause of Ashley's indignation in others. For one long week this lover of sensational has had the public a speech on his tablet in a personal explanation, and when he reported to give it true account of the late difference between himself and Garret Davis in the matter of Fitz John Porter, he was in the humor, and boldness, if for no higher qualities, that has withstood Congress, and but for the intervened to protect. Butler, ridiculed with effect his courageous pretensions, especially his opponent was like Garret Davis, an old and physically grand-ly his inferior. He said he had seen this would-be-bully put up with worst that even the meanest negro in Kentucky would resent. Mr. Hoar, one of the members of the Ashley Investigating Committee, considered it his duty to make some explanation of the course his colleagues had pursued in the matter of the investigation made by Farnsworth to the effect that Kept the funds of the asylum with those who were privately to benefit, or to keep back disposition of the estate, and then proceeded state that under the rule adopted by the committee it was decided that Butler's private could not be inquired into. He, however, it as his opinion that he believed Butler to disposed of these funds honestly. This to look up at the spare time of the House hour for adjournment arrived.

THE SOUTHERN CLAIMS COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The item in the Deficiency Appropriation bill, which removed the opposition in the Senate, was the amendment providing for the appointing of attorneys in the several States, with liberal salaries duty it should be to protect the interests of Government in all cases coming before the Southern Claims Commission now in session there. urged by such lawyers as Trumbull, Carpenter and Conkling that the effect of this bill would be to give this commission an importance which it was never originally intended it should have. The make of a bill of a board simply to collect and evidence, a sort of secondary Court of whose findings would be held to be binding greater or less degree upon Congress. Although this amendment was struck out, still items inserted simply giving this board the to send for all books, papers, and documents in the archives of the late so-called Confederate States, where an examination of them necessary in the course of investigating claims that may come before them, and to copies thereof, which labor shall save the cost of the original.

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 20.

COMMITTEES TO WAIT ON THE PRESIDENT.

Messrs. CONKLING and DAVIS (Ky.) were appointed to wait on the President and inform him that, unless he had some further communication to make, Congress was now ready to adjourn.

BILLS PASSED.

On motion of Mr. SCOTT, all on the table, including bills, which should be referred to their appropriate committees.

NEW BILL.

Mr. WEST introduced a bill to incorporate the Louisiana, Arkansas & New Mexico Railroad Company. Referred.

ADJOURNED.

At 12:05 the Senate went into executive session. At 3 o'clock the doors were reopened, when the President pro tem (Mr. ANTHONY) reported that he had no further communication to make.

The President pro tem (Mr. ANTHONY) then said: The Forty-second Congress of the United States is adjourned sine die.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

SENATE MESSAGE.

The House received a message from the Senate announcing the passage of a bill to amend an act to protect the Ku-Klux bill, and the passage of a joint resolution to extend the time for the completion of the Portland, Me., Custom-House.

THE KU-KLUX BILL.

Mr. POLAND presented the report on the Ku-Klux bill and the following substitute:

That all persons who shall hereafter, under the Board of Registration in any State shall be recorded on the list of voters, and that for application had been refused. Those affidavits are to be made the basis of a trial of the cause in the courts.

THE CHICAGO CONGRESSMAN.

It seems that David Blakely, of CHICAGO, visited Washington expressly for the position of Collector of Customs of that city, but he was at once informed that this was a personal, rather than a political appointment, worth $14,000, and that no change could be made.

To the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The Senate confirmed the following nominations to-day: George Lonkey, Pennsylvania, Chief Engineer, Monongahela.

BILLS REPORTED.

The President has signed the Ku-Klux and Deficiency bills; also, the following acts: Authorizing the appointment of two additional Assistant Surgeons in the Army; to transfer certain lands to the trustees of the North Georgia Agricultural College; to grant to the Pacific Railroad of Missouri the right of way through the Indian Territory; to grant to the Leavenworth, Lawrence & Galveston Railroad Company the right of way through the Indian Territory; also, an act for the appointment of duplicate checks to the disbursing officers.

THE RETALIATION BILL.

The following is the text of the Retaliation bill, as passed by both Houses of Congress:

AN ACT to enforce the provisions of the Fourteenth Article of Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

Be it further enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That if any person or persons, whether officers or otherwise, of any State, shall, within the jurisdiction of such State, deny to any person within the jurisdiction thereof the equal protection of the laws, or shall combine with any other person or persons to aid in depriving any person or class of persons within the jurisdiction of any State of the equal protection of the laws, or shall combine with any other person or persons to aid in depriving any person or class of persons within the jurisdiction of any State of any rights, privileges, immunities, or duties secured by the Constitution of the United States, or shall attempt to do any of the aforesaid acts, or shall refuse or neglect, when duly called upon by any person who has been injured in any of his rights, privileges, immunities, or duties secured by the Constitution of the United States, or by any law of the United States, or because of his having exercised the same, to prevent the commission of any of the aforesaid acts, when he has power so to do, or shall refuse or neglect to aid and assist in the prosecution of the same, or to make full reparation for the consequences thereof, every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor against the United States, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the Court, and shall, moreover, be liable to the party injured in an action for the recovery of damages occasioned by such injury, to be prosecuted and maintained in the proper Court of the United States, with costs, and with such reasonable counsel fees as the Court may allow; and if the said wrongful acts shall be done in such a manner as to deprive the party injured of the full and free enjoyment of any office or place of honor, trust or profit under the United States, such person shall, moreover, be forever disqualified from holding any office or place of honor, trust or profit under the United States.

SEC. 2. That any person or persons having knowledge that any of the wrongful acts aforesaid are about to be committed, and having power to prevent or aid in preventing the same, shall neglect or refuse so to do, and such wrongful act shall be committed, shall be liable to the person injured, or his legal representatives, for all damages caused by any such wrongful act which such person by reasonable diligence could have prevented; and such damages may be recovered in an action on the case, in the proper Circuit Court of the United States.

SEC. 3. That whenever the President is of opinion that any combination exists in any State whereby any portion of the people of such State are deprived of any of the rights, privileges, immunities, or protection named in the Constitution and secured by this act, and such combination shall be organized and armed, and so hostile and powerful as to oppose the constituted authorities of such State and of the United States, and to render it impracticable to enforce the laws thereof, it shall be lawful for the President, when in his judgment the public safety requires it, to take such measures as he may deem necessary to suppress such combination, and to cause the laws to be duly executed; and if it shall be necessary to use the military forces for that purpose, then, after proclamation made, as prescribed in the preceding section, commanding such combinations to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes within a limited time, the militia and other forces of the United States may be employed for the purpose specified in such proclamation, and in the subduing and dispersing such combination, and in the arrest and delivery into custody of the persons composing the same, and of their leaders, to the end that they may be dealt with according to law. In all cases of insurrection, obstruction of law, or rebellion against the authority of the United States, whether it be in the form of combination or a single arbitrary act, the President may, by the employment of the militia or the land and naval forces of the United States, or by any other means, suppress the same, and maintain the public safety.

SEC. 4. That in all cases where the unlawful acts mentioned in the first section of this act are committed or attempted to be committed by any organized band or combination of persons, it shall be competent for the President to employ for the suppression thereof any portion of the land or naval forces of the United States, or of the militia, that he may consider necessary, and the use of the militia shall not be confined to the locality where the rebellion exists.

SEC. 5. That whenever any insurrection, domestic violence, unlawful combination, or conspiracy in any State shall so obstruct or hinder the execution of the laws thereof, and of the United States, as to deprive any portion or class of the people of such State of any of the rights, privileges, or immunities, or protection named in the Constitution and secured by this act, and the constituted authorities of such State shall either be unable to protect, or from any cause fail in or refuse protection of the people in such rights, such facts shall be deemed a violation of the Constitution of the United States, and in any such case, or any other case in which the unlawful combinations shall be formed with the purpose of depriving by force the people of any State of the right to an election of Representatives in the Congress of the United States, or of the right to a fair trial in the Courts of the United States for any person charged with the violation of any law of the United States, the President may, when in his judgment the public interest shall require it, by proclamation, declare that the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall be suspended in such district for such period as he shall deem necessary; and he shall have authority in like manner to make and enforce all needful rules and regulations necessary and proper to secure the benefits and enjoyment of the writ of habeas corpus to persons duly entitled thereto.

SEC. 6. That any person who, under color of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, or custom, shall subject any inhabitant of any State to the deprivation of any right secured by the Constitution of the United States, or to different punishment, pains, or penalties on account of such person having at any time been held in a condition of slavery or involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, or by reason of his color or race, than is prescribed for the punishment of white persons convicted of the same or similar crimes in the State in which such person may be found, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not exceeding $1,000, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

SEC. 7. That whenever any insurrection, violence, unlawful combination, or conspiracy mentioned in the fifth section of this act shall oppose or obstruct the laws of the United States or the due execution thereof, or impede or obstruct the due course of justice under the same, in any State, the President may, by proclamation, declare that such insurrection, violence, unlawful combination, or conspiracy, if organized for the purpose of opposing the authority of the United States, within such State, shall be treated as a civil war; and thereupon all persons engaged on the one side or the other in such insurrection, violence, unlawful combination, or conspiracy, and all persons giving aid and comfort to those so engaged, shall be subject to the rules of war, and to the liabilities, pains, and penalties thereof; and all property of such persons used for the purpose of such insurrection, violence, unlawful combination, or conspiracy, or purchased with the proceeds of any property so used, or of the sales thereof, shall be forfeited to the United States; and all persons guilty of such insurrection, violence, unlawful combination, or conspiracy, and all persons giving aid and comfort thereto, shall thereafter be ineligible to any office of honor, profit, or trust under the United States.

SEC. 8. That the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

SEC. 9. That the Circuit Courts of the United States shall have, exclusively of the State Courts, cognizance of all crimes and offenses committed against the provisions of this act, and also of all causes of action given by this act, and the district attorneys, marshals, and deputy marshals of the United States shall have power, and it shall be their duty, to institute proceedings against all persons violating the provisions of this act, and cause them to be arrested and imprisoned, or bailed, for trial before such Court of the United States or Territorial Court as by the laws thereof may have cognizance of the offense. And the said district attorneys, marshals, and deputy marshals shall have, in the performance of their duties, the same powers and be subject to the same responsibilities as are now prescribed by law in regard to similar officers in the performance of their ordinary duties; and the said Courts shall have power to make and enforce all rules and regulations necessary and proper to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

SEC. 10. That in all cases where the final judgment of the highest Court of law or equity of a State in which a decision in the suit could be had is against the right, privilege, or immunity set up or claimed by any party under the Constitution of the United States, or any treaty or law made in pursuance thereof, or under any commission or authority exercised under the same, such party may sue out a writ of error, and the Supreme Court of the United States shall have jurisdiction to review the judgment, and may affirm or reverse the same, as to them shall seem right and proper, and may cause proper process to be issued for the execution of their judgment.

SEC. 11. That the Circuit Courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction of all causes, except causes between citizens of the same State, arising under the provisions of this act, without regard to the sum or value in controversy.

SEC. 12. That the Supreme Court of the United States shall have power to issue writs of certiorari in any case arising under the provisions of this act, and the Circuit Courts shall have power to issue writs of certiorari in any case arising under the provisions of this act, in the manner prescribed by the act of March 3, 1863, and the acts amendatory thereof.

SEC. 13. That the Circuit Courts of the United States shall have power to make and establish all proper rules and orders for the regulation of their proceedings in the trial and disposition of causes arising under the provisions of this act, and shall have power to establish rules and orders for taking proof of any facts in such causes by affidavit, or by oral examination of witnesses before examiners to be appointed by the Courts, or by commissioners to be appointed by the Courts, or by any of the modes prescribed by law or by the rules of Courts of equity.

SEC. 14. That the writs of habeas corpus shall extend to all cases of persons held in custody in violation of the Constitution of the United States, or of any law or treaty thereof.

SEC. 15. That the Circuit Courts of the United States shall have power to appoint commissioners to take bail in cases arising under the provisions of this act, and to take affidavits and depositions in cases pending in said Courts, and to issue commissions therefor.

SEC. 16. That the Circuit Courts of the United States shall have power to punish by fine and imprisonment all persons guilty of any contempt of, or resistance to, the process or lawful orders of said Courts, or of any of the judges thereof, or of any commissioner appointed by any of said Courts to take bail or affidavits or depositions, or to perform any other duty in any cause pending in said Courts, or by any of the judges thereof, or by any commissioner appointed as aforesaid.

SEC. 17. That the Circuit Courts of the United States shall have power to punish by fine and imprisonment all persons guilty of any contempt of, or resistance to, the process or lawful orders of said Courts, or of any of the judges thereof, or of any commissioner appointed by any of said Courts to take bail or affidavits or depositions, or to perform any other duty in any cause pending in said Courts, or by any of the judges thereof, or by any commissioner appointed as aforesaid.

SEC. 18. That the Circuit Courts of the United States shall have power to punish by fine and imprisonment all persons guilty of any contempt of, or resistance to, the process or lawful orders of said Courts, or of any of the judges thereof, or of any commissioner appointed by any of said Courts to take bail or affidavits or depositions, or to perform any other duty in any cause pending in said Courts, or by any of the judges thereof, or by any commissioner appointed as aforesaid.

SEC. 19. That the Circuit Courts of the United States shall have power to punish by fine and imprisonment all persons guilty of any contempt of, or resistance to, the process or lawful orders of said Courts, or of any of the judges thereof, or of any commissioner appointed by any of said Courts to take bail or affidavits or depositions, or to perform any other duty in any cause pending in said Courts, or by any of the judges thereof, or by any commissioner appointed as aforesaid.

THE PARIS REBELLION.

Each day brings its new explanation and theories of the Paris commune; but, with all this, the darkness is as much in that direction as it was at the first. The composition of the rebel army, or perhaps of the chief rebels, for there are many, that animate the bands in Paris, now appear in opposition to the Thiers government. One correspondent holds up to our view the trades-unions, and especially the great organization of workingmen known as the Internationals. "The rebellion," says this one, "is a grand trades-union strike, directed from London, the upshot of whose effort will be to abolish all rights of property, and to substitute for a republic the government of the blades." Bluntly, we are informed, "it is the organic drilling chief of the International, though Rochefort is its political figurehead." It will have its standing army. It will set up its guillotine. It will abolish religion.

There is a germ, of truth in this theory. The trades-unions in Europe are notoriously socialist and opposed to the influence of the Church and the priesthood; they are deeply imbued with socialist ideas and make of their representatives. Socialists hold that no man can have lawful right to anything as property, save that which his own labor has produced. They hold that all lands, mines, railways, and other means of transportation, and the savings of years, paper money should belong to the whole people in common. The working-men's organizations are doubtless a vast power, the greatest in Europe, France, and Germany that we can conceive of in America, and their whole strength is thrown into the Paris resistance. But they do not stand alone, nor do they receive the countenance and support of the middle classes. Even the Paris correspondent above quoted says: "Marriage law is not to be touched by the Communists." Why, then, if it is the very head of the Internationals, and the very soul of the Paris rebellion, is this left out? Why is it not attacked? Again, the Paris correspondent of the London Times says: "The Communists have not the slightest intention of abolishing the Presidency, which they consider the only safeguard against the Monarchists." Why

THE WHISKEY INTEREST.

Details of the Insurgent Disaster at Asnieres.

THE SIEGE OF PARIS.

SECRET FIGHTING.

PARIS, April 20.—A despatch dated Paris Tuesday night, says: "In the affair at Asnieres yesterday, the Two Hundred and Twenty-fourth Battalion of the National Guards, retreated inside the Porte Clichy. All is quiet."

The people charged the Nationals with cowardice, and a desperate fight ensued between the civil and military elements of the commune. The insurgent artillery is their only specialty; the Nationals, as a rule, are unprovided with artillery, and are therefore at a disadvantage in this respect. It is reported that the Versailles forces will follow up the attack; they must have succeeded.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

"A heavy cannonade has been raging at Neuilly since morning. The bombardment of the Bois de Boulogne at Nationals was killed. A commandant of artillery was denounced and arrested as a traitor. The Nationals are now preparing for a large forward movement. They say: 'Let us be masters of Neuilly, Asnieres, and the Levallois. Iron-clad railroad cars are operating between Versailles and Paris. Rumors are in circles of dissatisfaction inside of Paris.

The Revue newspaper denies that the Versailles forces are masters of the bridge crossing the Seine from Asnieres to Clichy.

The officers of the troops from the army of the Assembly continues.

LONDON, April 20.—A special despatch to the London Telegraph says the Arc de Triomphe has been destroyed by the fire of the batteries of the Versailles army.

Two guns were captured by the Versailles troops in the attack at Asnieres on the 18th.

A reinforcement of 10,000 men from the Army of the Assembly, under the command of Count Ducrot, is expected at Asnieres.

PARIS, April 20.—General Dombrowski reports to the Commune that his troops occupy certain positions, capturing 1,000 prisoners. He adds that the Versailles troops are in full retreat. Delescluze, Minister of War, announces that the Commune has agreed to all of the governmental terms.

THE COMMUNE.

The Commune retires from office, and now closed. The Assembly will be held at Neuilly.

The Mayor of Paris summoned the Communes for the suppression of various local committees.

VERSAILLES AND HIS TROOPS.

VERSAILLES, April 20.—Marshal Canrobert is here, and most of the Imperial Generals who served in the command of the army of the line of their former positions.

Marshal MacMahon has issued a proclamation to the troops, congratulating them upon their success.

THE INSURGENT SIDE SUPPRESSED.

The fall of the insurgents is gratefully chronicled.

NOT SO.

The story that England has gained Prussia to interfere between the French Government and the Paris insurgents, is untrue.

THE FRENCH LOAN.

It is reported that Arnaud-Lemaire have been made by which they contract to advance 2 1/2 francs per 100 francs, on account of the 5 per cent. loan, payable in 1872. After the bond advances the quotation was 57 1/2, and the market dull.

BERLIN, April 20.—Bunsen, on account of illness in Versailles, struck by shell, are ill.

SITUATION OF THE GOVERNMENT FORCES.

A special despatch Tuesday evening says: "Forty thousand government troops are in the vicinity of Paris. The commissariat department is in good condition. The Nationals are suffering for provisions, and will be forced to fight. Dombrowski is a prisoner. Many Nationals are killed, and the wounded are in great numbers. The government troops are in high spirits; they must have succeeded.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT, 11.

"A heavy fusillade has been raging at Neuilly since morning. The bombardment of the Bois de Boulogne at Nationals was killed. A commandant of artillery was denounced and arrested as a traitor. The Nationals are now preparing for a large forward movement. They say: 'Let us be masters of Neuilly, Asnieres, and the Levallois.'
